

Team member with tech background wanted!

roomdo – a not yet founded proptech start-up which aims for making the construction industry more sustainable is looking for support on the technical side.

Founders

Livia

Execution-driven business professional. Responsible for implementation, structure and focus.

Antonia

Green building enthusiast. Responsible for creativity, empathy and building expertise.

about roomdo

roomdo simplifies your renovation

As digital construction manager, roomdo assists with renovations of private property owners - from the initial idea to the final acceptance of the construction.

Because building on a strong foundation is the most sustainable way to create a liveable tomorrow.

roomdo is an online tool, offered via website and mobile app which assists with renovations of buildings held by private persons. It serves to simplify the administrative renovation process. For that, roomdo caters a two-sided market, consisting of all service providers who are required to execute a renovation and private property owners.

For service providers – mostly craftsmen – roomdo assists by digitalizing analogue processes. By that, craftsmen can focus on their actual craft instead of working on administrative tasks.

For property owners, roomdo acts as digital construction manager. Therefore, roomdo takes property owners by the hand to guide them through the entire renovation process - from the initial idea to the final acceptance.

What we are looking for

You should have experience with:

- Full stack development including CMS
- UI/UX design
- Device-independent native (mobile) app development
- Development of APIs to other platforms
- Integration of other services via iFrame

The following points resonate with you:

- You see global warming as a serious threat and are motivated to do something about it
- You are passionate about creating something new from scratch and finding solutions in a team
- You like working in cross-functional teams
- You speak English and/or German fluently

What we are offering to you

- Opportunity to build a company together with the two founders from scratch
- Stake in an ambitious project which claims to drive the transformation of a rapidly changing industry
- Hands-on early-stage start-up experience
- Highly autonomous working environment
- 100% remote work possible, occasional joint afterwork beer appreciated

What we cannot offer to you (yet)

- Salary
- Guaranty that anything we are aspiring to achieve is realizable